

I am an Indiana resident on the state's Do Not Call List. I have come to my attention that the FCC with this proposal is considering a similar but weakened version of Do Not Call List that would preempt the Indiana Law. I do not want the FCC to implement a law that would take away the privacy I currently enjoy.

Since Indiana's law went into effect, I am not interrupted at dinnertime 5 out of 7 nights per week and may spend more time enjoying a meal with my family, not saying "No thank you" to the telemarketer on the phone.

Please allow the States to make laws and regulations that improve the lives of the residents, and that meet or exceed federal rules and regulations. The Indiana Privacy Law has truly improved the quality of the time our family has together. Please do not take that away from us.

Thank you.
